Embracing the Journey of Spanish Jewry: An evening of music, A fusion of traditions

This is a cross-cultural event including performances from the international musical group, Guy Mendilow Ensemble, the Hellenic College choir, and Ladino poet Gloria Ascher, as well as a special exhibit by photographer Michael Cohen and conversations with published Chef Reyna Simnagar. They will be joined by the Consul General of Spain and the former American Ambassador to Spain. A kosher tasting of Spanish wines and Sephardic Persian appetizers will be served.

From Spain to Morocco, Greece, Turkey, Israel, South America, Mexico, Cuba and the United States, the dispersion of the Sephardic Jews created cultural interchanges. This year, as the shofar is blown to gather people together, we strive to promote global awareness of the shared customs and traditions of these diverse Christian, Muslim and Jewish communities. As part of the evening's theme, we will also learn about the "law of return," recently initiated by the government of Spain.

Creating awareness of cultural exchanges through the ages
